Thursday	Notes:	Objective: Students will develop a stronger understanding of Greek myth structure, style, and subject matter by reading some of the most famous myths. Lesson Overview: Thursday - Myth reading time! Perseus (founder of Mycenae) slays the Medusa and gets married, Sisyphus and Tantulus (why you don't anger the gods)	Academic Standards:

Friday	Notes:	Objective: Students will demonstrate knowledge gained about Greek mythology by constructing their own myth, using Greek subjects, themes, and structures. Lesson Overview: Friday - Writing assignment: Based on what you know of Mycenaen Greece culture and values so far, write a short myth featuring your own hero (you won't finish...we only have 55 minutes). I will grade this for accuracy (the gods, the cultural values, the writing style - does it sounds Iliad-like). You can also finish this over the weekend if you want. We'll read them aloud in class next Wednesday (all Greek myths were meant to be told, not read...)	Academic Standards:
